ABSTRACT

Apparatus, system and method for preparing a sample of a biological specimen utilizing a filter tray having a data storage device. The data storage device stores data relating to filter compatibility, expiration, and processing steps and parameters. The storage device can be attached to or positioned within the filter tray. The storage device can also be interfaced to a sample processing system.